ROCHESTER,
WITH STROOD, FRINDSBURY, AND UPNOR.

ROCHESTER is a city, and consists of the parishes of St. Nicholas and St. Margaret, and Chatham Intra, on the right bank of the navigable river Medway, and part of the parishes of Strood and Frindsbury on the left bank, in the western division of the county. The population in 1861 was -- St. Nicholas, 3,194; St. Margaret's, 7,520; military in Forts Pitt and Clarence, 609; the population of the whole of the parish of Strood, 3,863; Frindsbury whole parish, 2,213; total, 15,129. It is 29 miles from London, 8 from Maidstone, 8 from Gravesend, 27 from Canterbury, and 42 from Dover. There is a station on the North Kent line at Strood, and likewise on the London, Chatham, and Dover railway at Strood. It is the see of a Bishop, whose jurisdiction extends over the deanery of Rochester and the county of Essex; it formerly extended over the whole of West Kent. It is in the Medway union, which comprises the City of Rochester, the borough of Chatham, and the parish of Gillingham. Strood and Frindsbury form a part of the north Aylesford union. The city is paved, well lighted with gas, and supplied with water from a reservoir at Gillingham. The city is straggling, and extends for a considerable distance along the river banks.

Rochester has a corporation, consisting of a mayor, aldermen, and town councillors. Quarter sessions are held here. There is also a commission of the peace for the city of Rochester, and a county court for the following twenty-two parishes, viz., Allhallows, Burham, Borstal, Cathedral Precinct (Rochester), Chatham, Cliffe, Cooling, Cuxton, Frindsbury, Gillingham, Isle of Grain, Grange, Halling, High Halstow, Hoo, Lidsing, Luton, St. Mary's (Hoo), St. Margaret's (Rochester), St. Nicholas (Rochester), Stoke, and Wouldham. The markets are -- Rochester, Fridays; Chatham, Saturdays; Rochester, corn, Tuesdays; and Rochester monthly cattle market on fourth Tuesday in each month. The fairs at Chatham are 15th May and 19th September, each for three days; at Strood, 20th, 27th, and 28th of August. Rochester and Chatham enjoy their principal advantage from being the seat of a grand naval and military station; but they have also considerable trade, and fisheries. At the establishment of Messrs. Aveling and Porter, manufacturers of the patent steam engine for agricultural and other purposes, a great number of hands are employed. The town has been well fortified since the attack of the Dutch who sailed up the Medway and burnt several vessels in Charles II.'s time. Rochester is the seat of a customs port of entry, the receipts of which, are about £12,000 per annum. The excise district, or collection, has also its head quarters here. Being on the high road to Dover, there is much traffic through the city. Rochester was an ancient British town, as its Romanised name proves. The Romans held it as an important station on the grand road to London, under the name of Durobrivæ. The English having conquered it, gave it its present name. Ethelbert the Britwald, and King of Kent, founded here the Cathedral and Bishop's See in 604. In 676 the city was destroyed by Ethelred, King of Mercia, and again by the Danes in 839. It was besieged by the Danes in 885, but relieved by King Alfred. In 986 it was besieged by King Ethelred. In 998 it was sacked by the Danes, and William Rufus besieged and took the castle. The city was nearly destroyed by fire in 1130, 1137, and 1177. In 1215 the castle was taken by King John; in 1216 retaken by the Dauphin, Louis of France, and in 1217 retaken again. In 1264 the town was taken and the castle besieged by Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester, the founder of our Parliamentary liberties. Wat Tyler, in his insurrection, attacked the castle. In 1688 King James II. embarked here.

Rochester Cathedral is an edifice remarkable for its antiquity. It was founded in 604, but is of various ages, and consists of a nave, aisles, choir (raised by ten steps above the nave), a principal transept, and a smaller transept at the east end of the choir. The dimensions are, 306 feet in length (nave 150, choir 156), 122 feet in breadth across the great transept, and 90 feet across the smaller transept. The building, it will be observed, forms a double cross. At the intersection of the transepts in the centre is a tower, erected in 1825. On the north side of the choir is Gundulf's tower, and at the west end are two small towers. The west part is in the enriched Norman style. The nave was built by Bishop Gundulf in the eleventh century, and has Norman piers and arches. Other parts of the cathedral are also of the early Norman. The crypt, or undercroft, under the cathedral, is very spacious. In 1840 the whole interior was repaired and restored, and has been very much improved.

St. Paulinus, the first bishop, St. Thamar, St. Tobias, St. Ithamar, and St. William, are buried here. St. "William," of Rochester, was a Scotch baker, who was killed while on a pilgrimage to Jerusalem, in 1201, on the road to Canterbury, and was canonized. His shrine attracted many votaries. There are also tombs of Bishops Ingelthorpe, Laurence de St. Martin, Glanville, De Merton (Lord Chancellor, and founder of Merton College, Oxford, whose tomb is of Limoges enamelled work), Lowe, Warner (the founder of Bromley College), Bradfield, and Hethe; also of Lord Henniker. The chapter-house is now in ruins. The library contains some ancient MSS.; among others, the celebrated register of the diocese, the Textus Roffensis, and the Custumule Roffense, composed about 1320. The establishment of the cathedral consists of a bishop (formerly this was the poorest see in England, but is now made up to £4,000 per annum), dean, archdeacon four canons, four minor canons, chancellor, eight choristers, and with a Grammar school attached, with a master and twenty scholars. The management of the Grammar school by the Dean and Chapter was the subject of much controversy and litigation in 1853. The gross income of the Dean and Chapter has been returned at £7,178 per annum, and the nett income £5,106. £14,000 was spent between 1827 and 1834, in the repairs. Rochester had formerly four parish churches, but the site of St. Mary's is forgotten. St. Margaret's church, Rochester, was rebuilt in 1824, and has a curious stone font, and some old monuments. The living is a vicarage, in the patronage of the Dean and Chapter, annual value £389, with residence, held by the Rev. Wm. Henry Drage, M.A. St. Nicholas' church, Rochester, is ancient, and has a curious octagonal font of stone. This church was built in 1624, on the site of one much older. The living is a vicarage, in the patronage of the Bishop, with that of St. Clement annexed, value £150, with residence, held by the Rev. William Conway, M.A., of Trinity College, Cambridge. The church has recently undergone a thorough repair. St. Clement's church, Rochester, is now demolished. Its walls were to be traced in the houses on the north side of High street, near the bridge, now removed for the railway improvements. St. Peter's, Troy town, is a district church of St. Margaret's, erected in 1859, at a cost of £6,000; it is a handsome stone building in the Gothic style, consisting of nave, chancel, and south aisle. The living is a perpetual curacy, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Rochester; the Rev. Henry Phillips, M.A., of University College, Oxford, is the incumbent.

The Town-hall is the building in which the sittings of the city magistrates are held; it contains some portraits. The Market-house in Rochester has the usual accommodation for the transaction of business. The gaol, in Rochester, is used for the purposes of the local jurisdiction. The gas works are on a considerable scale, suited to the population. Rochester Castle is an ancient edifice, of Norman architecture, near the bridge, with very thick walls of Kentish ragstone.

Rochester, in 1833, had forty schools, with 1,219 scholars. The first of these is the Rochester Cathedral Grammar school, founded by King Henry VIII.; head master, the Rev. Robert Whiston, M.A., late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge; second master, the Rev. R. P. Coates, M.A., late Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge; French master, Monsieur Charpentier. The average cost for each boy is about £60. Twenty King's scholars are educated free of the charge of £14 for tuition, and receive an annual allowance of £16 13s. 4d.; their selection, after an examination, is vested in the Dean and Chapter of Rochester, and any boy between the ages of nine and fifteen is eligible. The boys educated at this school are entitled to four exhibitions, two at Oxford, and two at Cambridge, of the yearly value of £30 10s., during residence, paid by the Dean and Chapter; they are also entitled to two of the Gunsley exhibitions, at University College, Oxford, of the yearly value of £25 during residence. The electors are the Master and Fellows of the College, and each exhibitioner is allowed £15 per annum, from the date of his election to the commencement of his residence at Oxford. There is also another exhibition of £5, in the gift of the Head Master. There is an annual examination, conducted by a gentleman appointed by the Dean and Chapter. Annual prizes, to the amount of £10 10s., are given by the representatives of Rochester, to those pupils who distinguish themselves most in classics, mathematics, and the French language respectively. The average number of scholars is about 60. Williamson's Free school was founded in 1701 by Sir Joseph Williamson, who bequeathed £5,000 in perpetuity for its support. The income of this school is now nearly £11,400 per annum. Garrick was a pupil in it. There are also National and British schools. The theatre is principally supported by the garrison and its officers. On the Medway are floating baths.

The Poor Travellers' House, founded and endowed by Richard Watts, Esq., in the reign of Elizabeth, for twelve poor travellers, has an inscription on it, stating that neither "rogues nor proctors will be admitted," each to receive a night's lodging, a supper, and fourpence on leaving in the morning. The revenues, which at the time of the donor's death were small, have so increased as to amount at the present time to £3,500 per annum. In July 1855, a scheme was sanctioned by the Court of Chancery for the building an almshouse for ten men and ten women, fourteen of whom were to receive £30 a year each, a head nurse £60 a year, a porter £50, and four nurses £50 a year each. A splendid set of Almshouses, in the Elizabethan style of architecture, has been erected in the Maidstone road, at a cost of nearly £10,000, with two magnificent gateways, at a cost of £350 each, designed by Mr. Foord, and built by Mr. James Gouge Naylar, contractor, of Rochester. The scheme likewise empowered the trustees to give a sum of £4,000 towards the erection of a general hospital for the benefit of the city and neighbourhood, and a sum of £1,000 per annum towards its support.

St. Bartholomew's hospital, in the Eastgate, was originally founded in the time of the Crusades for lepers; there being now no objects of relief as contemplated by the founder of this charity, the income (which by a judicious management in a few years will be very considerable) is being applied towards building the general hospital, and its future revenue will be devoted towards the support of the same.

St. Catherine's hospital, Star-hill, for sixteen aged females, with stipends from £24 to £28 per annum each. Hawkin's charity, in Chatham Intra, for decayed seamen; the inmates are appointed by the dock authorities.

St. Thomas's general sick hospital, now in the course of erection in the New road, is a handsome and spacious brick building, and is estimated to cost £20,000, £4,000 of which was contributed from Watts' charity, who will likewise contribute £1,000 per annum towards its support. A Government grant of £4,500 was made towards its erection for a sick military ward, the remainder to be defrayed from the revenues of the St. Bartholomew's estate.

The bridge over the Medway is a handsome and substantial iron structure of three arches, erected in 1857 and 1858, at a cost of £200,000, which was defrayed partly by an accumulated fund arising from the bridge estate, the remainder having been borrowed on mortgage of the same fund.

The county court office, erected in 1862, is in High street, and is a handsome and commodious brick building, in the Elizabethan style of architecture.

TROY TOWN is a southern suburb; Delce, half a mile south; Chiventon and Bostal, 1 mile south-west.
